SENIORS

I am not sure that I am well named.

True, I want to be older than I am and
Life is beginning to take on meaning but . . .
I am not content.

At times I am amazed at my sense of maturity;
Again, I am glad to slip back into childhood.

I accept responsibilities, then oftentimes forget them . . .
Yet, I can do a job.

I am so filled with many interests that the chief
need of my life remains empty.
Yet, I am deeply impressed with any evidence
of my own spiritual deepening.

What I am becoming depends more on my teachers and adult leaders than they realize.

They may not know or even dare to estimate the Power of their influence.

I need them because they are my "seniors."

Class History . . .

FRESHMAN . . .

Our Freshman year was one of wide-eyed anticipation, from minute to minute. We learned how to fight our way to the donuts at Guidi's and how to juggle cokes from counter to booth, if we were lucky enough to get one, without spilling a drop. The upperclassmen hovered over us like giants; it seemed they thought they were doing us a favor by letting us attend "their" school, and we humbly accepted that point of view. Our officers were Marshall Kaplan, President; Sharon Calocci, Vice-President; Joseph Burgwinkle, Treasurer; and Joanne Graves, Secretary. For the first time we produced a play for the Inter-class Dramatics, "Readin', 'Ritin', and 'Rithmatic"; and also, for the first time, we felt that we really belonged to C.H.S.

SOPHOMORE . . .

Now the tables were turned and we watched the squirming Freshmen with delight. How could we have ever been like those Freshmen? We all scrambled for the "Octopus," and turned to the "Vacuum Cleaner" first. Everyone wanted to see who "made the news this week." Again we participated in the Inter-class Dramatics with a hysterical play called "Wilbur Falls In Love." Our officers were Lawrence Ogilvie, President; Mary Ann O'Malley, Vice-President; Philip Nolan, Treasurer; and Ann Gannon, Secretary. Here we were, old hands at high school procedure, when along comes a sudden jolt that knocked even the sophisticated Sophomores for a loop, "Final Exams to be given in June."

JUNIOR . . .

Now we were upperclassmen and we did Freshmen favors. We let them attend "our" school. In the middle of the year we made the change from our "campus" to the new school. We'll never forget our last recess at Guidi's, and neither will Armand. We got busy right away on our Junior Prom, the one event we waited three years to organize. Laraine Dobeck and John Hubble were elected co-chairmen, and together with our class officers, Lawrence Ogilvie, Patricia Donnini, Marshall Kaplan, and Maria Dziczek, created a prom we'll never forget. The theme was "Some Enchanted Evening," and the title could not have been more appropriate.

SENIOR . . .

We have arrived. We are finally Seniors. Something new this year, the cafeteria, where the rule was "The Survival of the Fittest." This is the year the whole class becomes one unit. First of all, we elected Marshall Kaplan, President; Jacqueline Ward, Vice-President; Lawrence Ogilvie, Treasurer; and Carol Poulos, Secretary. The Hop, the Class Trip, the Class Banquet, the Yearbook, and "Echo," our Interclass Dramatics production, are all projects that we did together. We'll never forget those last weeks at C.H.S. Not even final exams could mar our memories of the singing and marching. At last the big day arrives, June 5, 1963, and the Class of '63 leaves the halls of ivy forever.

History of the Memorabilia

The first edition of the MEMORABILIA was printed in 1913 by a graduating class of only thirty-six. The book was small and simple, but warm, a lasting remembrance of the high school days of the following people:

Caroline A. Bowers
Gladys F. Cobb
Davis O. N. Edes
Agnes Fury
Josephine A. Heagney
Nellie T. Hume
Alice M. Lee
Mildred I. Linton
John Mitchell
Henry W. Pickford
Dorice T. Russell
Katherine R. Tierney
Mary A. Burke
Anna T. Comaskey
Osborne T. Everett
Mary A. Gibbons
Eula L. Howard
Evelyn M. Hurley
Annie L. Lee
Edith G. Mason
Mary L. Murphy
Alice J. Prendergast
Louise K. Sprague
Howard L. Whitcomb
Maddison A. Cairns
Esther B. Crothers
Florence E. Felton
Elizabeth M. Hayter
Hortense G. Hubbard
Franklin Jacobs
Cornelia H. Lewis
Anna C. McQuoid
Margaret Patterson
William A. Robinson
Harold E. Thompson
Levi E. Wheeler

To these people belongs the credit for establishing a tradition that has remained unbroken for fifty years. The birth of the MEMORABILIA is, perhaps seldom, if ever, considered. A yearbook at Clinton High seems to us as always to have been and always to be. It is as much a part of graduation as is the diploma itself.

As the size of the classes increased, so, of course, did the size of the yearbook change. However, the warmth remains and the MEMORABILIA is as treasured by the current graduates as it was by its founders. It points out the way to four wonderful years, now gone by, never to return, save on the paths of pleasant memories.

The MEMORABILIA has come a long way from its small beginnings. In 1959 a standard cover was adopted as still another step to strengthen MEMORABILIA tradition. In a nationwide contest, a prize-winning edition was published by the Class of '60.

This year the Class of 1963 is proud to present this golden edition in observance of the 50th Anniversary of the MEMORABILIA.

Barbara Straitt leaves her basketball uniform to Leslie McNamara.

James Sullivan leaves working on his '56 Ford.

Adrienne Truesdale leaves her carefree manner.

Frederick Turcotte leaves his capacity, both mental and physical, to Harvey Gould.

Richard Turini leaves with a wave.

Jacqueline Ward leaves as neatly as she came.

To the Freshmen, we say, "It seems like a long road, but it's short when you've finally reached the end."

To the Sophomores, we say, "Cheer up, the day is coming for you, too."

To the Juniors, we leave the pleasure of being "big" Seniors.

To C.H.S., we leave a lasting impression.

Anticipating the future is an easy task.
Let us foretell the years to come
for each member of our class.

Class Prophecy

The year is 1999 and many of the graduates of Clinton High School, Class of 1963, are preparing for the commencement exercises at Clinton University.

Featured speaker at the ceremony will be newly appointed president of the university, Marshall Kaplan, B.S., Ph.D., who will talk on "Opportunities in Industry on the Moon." President Kaplan will bestow honorary engineering degrees to Joseph Pasky and James McDonald. Also, an honorary medical degree will be given to Winifred Brower, and corresponding degrees in Nursing to Laraine Dobeck, Joanne Graves and Jacqueline Gleisberg.

Seated on the stage with President Kaplan will be Albert Nilsson, Dean of Men, and Dawn Johnson, Dean of Women. Reverend John Hubble will deliver the invocation.

Robert Freel, head of the School of Education, will distribute diplomas to Joanne Garrity and Nancy Gillenwaters in the Foreign Language Department, Kathleen McLaughlin, Eleen Cambridge, Dorothy Joyce and Marie Gulia in the Elementary Education Department, Susan Connelly, Special Education, and Tunde Gombas in the Mathematics Department.

Next on the program will be the presentation of the engineering degrees by Fred Turcotte, Department Head. Among those receiving diplomas are Paul Bailey, William Newton and James Evergates. Bachelor of Science degrees in Nursing will be handed out by Marsha Goodwin, R.N., B.S., to Maria Dziczek, Rosalie DiMeco, Dorothy Fadgen and Kathleen Foster.

The single diploma in Agriculture will be presented to Paul Johnson, and those receiving diplomas under the R.O.T.C. program are Robert Faulkner, Vincent Pittelli, Robert Reardon and Harold Popp.

After graduation the students are making a final tour of the university campus. As they pass by the president's office they see his administrator, Robert Conlon, and his two secretaries, Arlene O'Connell and Linda Chiarvelloti. The president's personal secretary, Carol Poulos, is busily typing letters.

Dean of Admissions, Paul Celona, is dictating letters to his capable assistant, Mary Gemma, while John Gorman, Guidance Director. makes plans for the incoming September class.

The newest building on the campus is the Student Union designed by Richard Innamorati, along with his competent assistants, George Julsonnet and Neil MacKillop. As they enter the lobby, they are greeted by Judith Cordi, the receptionist. Their next stop is at the cafeteria for a bite to eat before continuing their walk through the Student Union. The cafeteria is under the capable management of Richard Turini who has prepared for them a delicious luncheon. Their waitresses are Barbara Straitt and Arlene Hackett, who serve them efficiently and amiably.

The students, having finished their meal, now continue their walk through the building. They enter the Barber Shop where Richard Freel is giving a haircut to Robert Pletschke. Both men talk with the students and wish them well in whatever occupations they take in the coming year. They visit the recreation rooms which are on the same floor. Passing by the Pool Room, we see Tommy Kobus, manager, giving instructions on the art of billiard playing. Some of the students go down to the Book Store where they visit their good friend Kippy Naughton and watch as he stacks books preparing for the incoming students going to summer school. On the same floor as the Campus Book Store they find the Coiffeur Beauty Salon under the supervision of Loretta Burke. As they enter, Priscilla

Alden is giving a permanent to Sandra McCarthy.

The Campus Clothes Store, next to the Beauty Parlor, carries most of the up-to-date fashions in college sportswear. Many of these clothes are designed by Patty Pupecki and Donna Gorsuch. These girls are graduated from the University School of Design.

The students then walk across campus to The Memorial Gymnasium. The girls enter the pool section where Jackie Ward is instructing her group of swimmers in a water ballet. Some of those in the group include Norma Olson, Mary Marcotte and Shirley Nelson. In another room Connie Porciello leads a modern dance group with Cynthia Klarner, Janet LaFountain, Linda Lovett and Diane Gour.

On the main floor of the gym a few graduates, who have exchanged their caps and gowns for gym uniforms, are practicing for a special Gymnasts Show for those students remaining through the summer for special courses. Ronald Pierce is showing his athletic ability on the parallel bars, while John Naughton is doing stunts on the trampolene. In charge of this program is Raymond McNamara, men's physical education instructor. In the locker room of the gym, members of the university's award-winning basketball team are wishing Coach James McNamara luck with his next year's squad. Philip Nolan, Robert Rumphrey, John Sheridan, Robert Cassasanto and Robert Chiavaras are among those present.

Leaving the gym and walking through the football practice field, we find Coach Larry Ogilvie instructing some boys in spring football. Watching this practice session are two of the leading players who graduated today, William Bazydlo and Michael Chiavaras. Both received nationwide recognition for being top All-American stars. With them is William Plante, former team manager, and Walter Dubovick, who will become Mechanical Arts Instructor at the local high school.

Walking toward the Infirmary is Elaine Ciavola, R.N., head nurse at the school, discussing the X-ray of a patient with the X-ray Technician, Mary Kilcoyne. Approaching them is Adrienne Truesdale, presenting a question as to the visiting hours of the Infirmary. Also employed at the Infirmary is Patricia Donnini, Dental Assistant; Margaret Brodrick, Receptionist; and Patrick Cavanaugh, Orderly. An oculist from town will arrive any minute to examine the eyes of Theresa Boivin, Joanne Boston, Shirley Dumas and Sharon Starr. Getting the records of these young ladies is Linda Bennett, and setting up the equipment is James Sullivan. Over the Public Address System comes an urgent call from Judith Connelly for Dr. Robert Bedard, saying that he is wanted in the emergency room. Entering the room we find Richard Brodrick being looked after by Susan Kowalczyk, Surgical Technician, with Sharon Girouard and Gertrude Duggan, her assistants, giving the details to the doctor. It appears that Richard fell in the gym and has an apparent broken arm.

In front of the Administration Building Sharon Calocci stops to give a ride to Diane Sontag and Mary Sablock, who are going to town to visit "The Clothes Corner," a new shop under the management of Mary Ellen Burke. Coming back from town they see Elaine Hobby and Cheryl Bosselman, who stop to speak to Karen Spielvogel while she packs her luggage into her car.

Beside the pond in the middle of the park, the Dramatics Club, in co-operation with the teachers of the town, are putting on a skit for the benefit of the children in the elementary grades. Ann Gannon is serving as Mistress of Ceremonies with Sharon Richardson, Margaret Shortsleeves and Anna Freel playing leading parts. Director of the play is Arlene Foster, who is also President of the club.

The tour has finally ended and the students are slowly getting into their cars. All their experiences in the university are now memories to be cherished forever.

Some Enchanted Evening

On June 1, 1962, the Clinton High School Gymnasium was converted into a red and white floral paradise. Thousands of delicate roses decorated the walls for the first prom to be held in our new gym. The heavenly atmosphere, made possible by Co-Chairmen John Hubble and Laraine Dobeck, and Decorating Chairman Sharon Calocci, was enhanced by the prism effect of the sparkling crystal ball. The birds sung outside in the warm summer night, as Perry Conte and his orchestra played the music inside for the 130 couples.

As the night moved on, the traditional Grand March was organized. The somber Senior Class officers relinquished their caps and gowns to Lawrence Ogilvie, Patricia Donnini, Maria Dziczek, and Marshall Kaplan, our class officers. After much anxiety, the climax of the evening was finally reached. Miss Kathleen McLaughlin, arrayed in a pale yellow gown, was chosen queen. Lawrence Ogilvie crowned the queen after she was escorted down the red velvet carpet which led to the majestically decorated throne.

The evening gradually died out, but the beauty and success of that night will linger in our memories.

"HERE'S MY HEART"

Another "first" was made when we chose the Clinton High School Cafeteria as the place for our Senior Hop. Joanne Graves and Richard Innamorati, Co-Chairmen, managed the preparations for the event. It was a warm spot for the brisk winter night of February 15, 1963, decorated with our class colors, exemplified in red and white hearts, produced from thousands of roses which softly graced the hall. That night the Four Jacks supplied the music. The Grand March was climaxed by the selecting of the queen and her court. Miss Mary Ellen Burke, strikingly attired in a red satin gown, was chosen queen. She was escorted to the throne and crowned by Richard Innamorati. Sterling silver, heart-shaped charms were chosen for the favors, and the queen and her court were presented with engraved charms. At midnight, Louis Turini's Catering Service began serving the couples a delicious dinner. Our last formal affair at Clinton High School was a complete success and will be remembered by all who participated.

CLASS SONG

"TILL WE MEET AGAIN"

High school days have gone by now forever,
And each one must go his own way.
Parents, teachers, were true,
They sure helped us through;
Please remember we're thankful to you.

Chorus:

Mem'ries in our hearts will always be,
Of our high school class of sixty-three.
We have tried to do our best.
Higher goals will be our quest.
Football, dances, proms and parties too,
Homework, tests, and friendships ever true;
So long, teachers, farewell, all;
Till We Meet Again.

Football

The fragrance of burning leaves and luscious red apples hanging lazily from trees could signal only one thing, the pigskin season. Enthusiasm was high as the 1962 edition of the never-say-die Gaels began their practices under the scrutinizing eye of our spirited coach, Mr. O'Brien. With only two starters returning, nineteen sixty-two was to be a rebuilding year for the Gaels. The season began with the Gaels locking horns with St. Peter's in a hard fought, bruising game. The Galloping Gaels fought stubbornly, but lost the hard fought decision, 18 to 0. In the next six contests the Gaels continued to play their hardnosed football, being edged out repeatedly by a slim margin. But on November 9th, the Gaels were not to be denied victory. Combining in an all-out team effort, the Gaels crushed the St. Bernard's eleven, 25 to 12. The Senior boys who played for the Green and Gold were Michael Chiavaras, Lawrence Ogilvie, Paul Bailey, John Hubble, Richard Freel, William Bazydlo, Richard Innamorati, John Gorman and Captain Paul Celona. Captain Celona and hard hitting John Gorman were outstanding throughout the year and received merited recognition by being named to the North Worcester County All-Star Team.

BASKETBALL

Having lost three regulars from last year's squad through graduation, Coach Bill Gosselin had to build almost anew. The Gaels began their rough schedule with the Dandies from Auburn. It seemed that this might be the year for the basketballmen of C.H.S., but being continually hampered by fouling and the lack of height, the Gaels lost to the Auburnmen, 64 to 34.

From this point on bad luck continued to haunt the team. The Gaels just couldn't get that one win that would have set the stage for a winning season. The Gaels never gave up and were always in their giving their best, losing two overtime games to Maynard and real squeakers to Hudson, Milford, Shrewsbury and Marlboro. With the return of the big-men from this year's team, the coming edition of the C.H.S. roundballmen should be much improved and a winning ball team.
